

The Art Students

Celebrating Female Artists at the League

As we approach the 100th anniversary of women's suffrage in the U.S., the Art Students League celebrates the prominent role that women have played in our school and community.

In 1875, women were at the forefront in the group of young artists who—determined to experiment with new techniques and forms of expression—founded the League. Today, more than 40 women teach classes and workshops at the League. You can “meet” some of these instructors and see their students' work in the following pages.

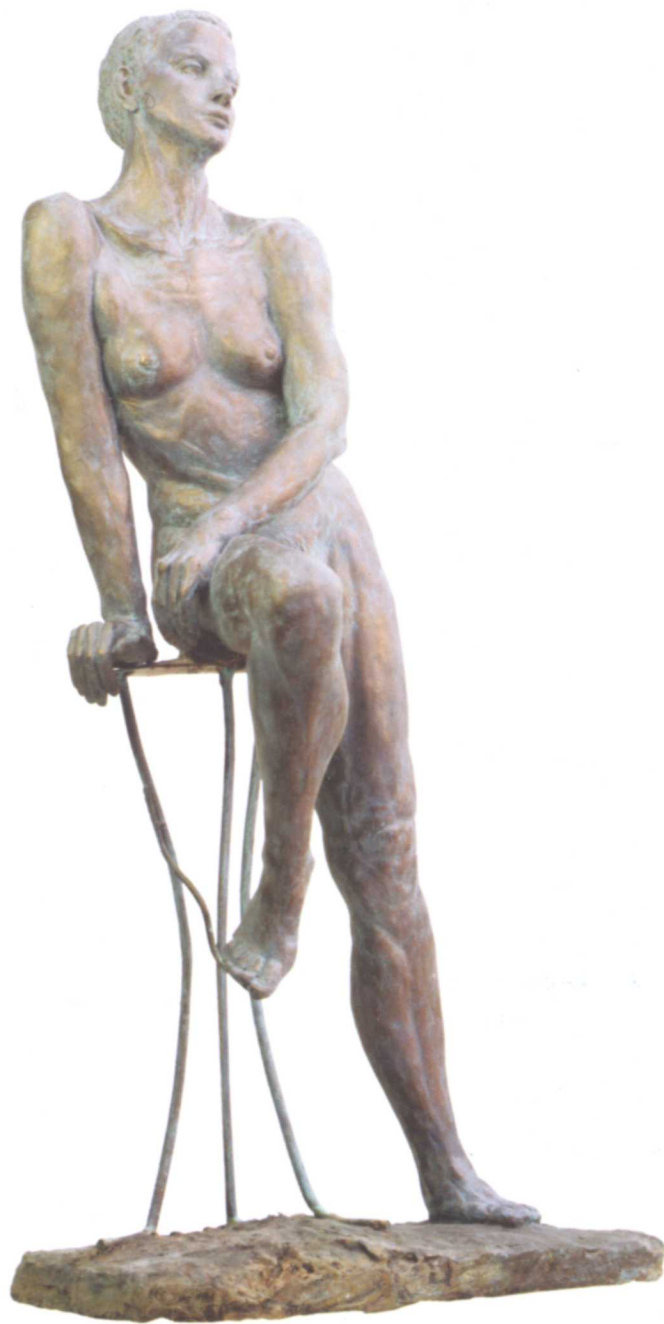

Hundreds of prominent women in the arts have studied at the League. (See pages 124–126). Here are just a few:

Lee Bontecou • Louise Bourgeois • Dorothy Dehner • Audrey Flack • Helen Frankenthaler • Eva Hesse
• Faith Hubley • Lee Krasner • Yayoi Kusama • Marisol • Hildreth Meière • Louise Nevelson • Georgia O'Keeffe
• Betty Parsons • Margery Ryerson • Florine W. Stettheimer • Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney

The League's commitment to women artists is matched only by our support of of all our students. Please join us at the League.

Kenyon Cox's Women's Life Class at the League, 1903

Student Luz-Mary Harris
Magda, 2017, Aqua-Resin, bronze patina, 45 x 22 x 16 inches
Red Dot Winner (2015)
Monitor for Anthony Antonios (2015–2018)